Life Begins At The End Of Your Comfort Zone
"Life begins at the end of your comfort zone."

In our individual day-to-day operations we have to focus on continuing to grow. Life isn't life until we realize that we are on a never-ending quest to make ourselves better, in the hopes of making the world a better place in return. Nobody ever said that achieving growth is easy, because this process forces us to change if we really desire and want success to be a regular part of our lives.

There is only growth in our lives if we continue to change for the better. Remaining the same person with habits that cause unproductive results, will only lead us further away from success than we would probably desire, so don't remain this same person. While we should calculate, and plan for our dreams as much as we can we still must be able to do things that scare us, sometimes live our lives on the edge, and work hard at becoming the best us we possibly can.
