"If you prepare yourself at every point as well as you can...you will be able to grasp opportunity for broader experience when it appears."

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

When you prepare greatly for every aspect in life, it may seem as though what luck you have greatly increases. Staying on top of the crazy horned bull that we call life can be a difficult task, and is a task that we have that will cause us to fall off at certain points.
When we practice and prepare we help to perfect our craft, which is why a person who is dedicated to something should prepare as much as possible for it, so that when opportunities present themselves, they may be more easily seized.

Preparing yourself at every point won't guarantee any success without struggle, but it will guarantee that you are in a much better spot than you would be if you chose not to prepare at all. Don't let life pass you by, grasp every opportunity, and delight in every opportunity you are given as well.
