Success Isn't Just About What You Accomplish In Your Life...
"Success isn't just about what you accomplish in your life, it's about what you inspire others to do."

Everybody has gone through things that help to make them who they are. The trials that you have overcome, are trials that everyone else may not have been able to overcome. The problems you have solved are problems that not everyone may have been able to solve.

In every single one of us is greatness, and though some are better able to tap into this greatness than others, there is nothing that we should be ashamed about in our lives as long as we take each day as it comes trying to be better than we were the day before.

Appreciate the greatness that you have inside of you. Appreciate that you have come this far, and that you can always choose to be an inspiring story of life. Make everyday a day that you can testify to the world, make everyday yours by trying your hardest to reach your dreams.
