"To live is the rarest thing in the world. Most people exists, that is all."
Doing more than existing is definitely necessary if we truly want to take life for all that it is worthwhile we have the distinct chance to. You exist but do you live?

When you are posed this question what can you really say about your life? Is your life yours? Are you committed entirely to living your life as a person that you really know yourself to be? Or do you find yourself conforming, and trying to fit in a sort of default box that normal standard sized people can all fit in.

Don't commit to living a life that everyone else wants you to live, live your own life! Go after all of the hopes, dreams, plans, and goals that you have set in your heart. Love, live, laugh, and be you while doing all three of these things! Now is the time to stop existing, and to start living!
