News Center for Women's Studies Organized Workshop on Home Industry

The women entrepreneurs on home industry of villages around Darmaga campus, attended a workshop organized by the Division for Women's Studies Program (PSW) of Center for Agriculture and Rural Development Studies (PSP3) of the Institute of Research and Community Empowerment (LPPM) of IPB, at Hotel Salak, Bogor, on Monday, 11 April 2011. The theme of the Workshop was "The Development of Home Industry: From the Perspective of Women Entrepreneurs on Home Business", and it was jointly funded by Division for Women's Studies Program (PSW) of Center for Agriculture and Rural Development Studies (PSP3) of the Institute of Research and Community Empowerment (LPPM) of IPB and State Ministry for Women Empowerment and Child Protection (KPP-PA) RI. The farmers welfare will increase if the reconstruction efforts for agro-industry development models will be planned. This statement was presented by one of the Faculty members of the Department of Agricultural Industry Technology - Faculty of Agricultural Technology, Bogor Agricultural University, Prof. E. Gumbira Said in the National Seminar on Agriculture and Congress of Students of the Graduate Study on “Model of Agricultural Development Towards Global Competitiveness and Farmers' Prosperity”. The event was organized by the Graduate Student Council of Bogor Agricultural University, on Saturday, 26 March 2011, at the Darmaga Campus, Bogor. "Some of the proposed reconstructions are, as follows: (1). Design agro-industry factory that close to the location of raw materials sources; (2). Encourage the development of Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs) of the agro-industry to achieve its total number to be around 90 percent; (3). Agriculture as an absorber of the national professionals workforce; and (4). Increase the involvement of multi-national corporate (MNC) in agricultural economic development, "explained Prof. Gumbira Said.