A database system has been developed to predict land suitability and cultivation information of national valuable fruits. The database system covers commodity of fruits database, agro-ecological database, and salaccia and mango information database. "A computer program for determining the best of land suitability was designed based on fruits database and agroecological database. Keywords: database, fruits, land suitability.

Sumber: repository IPB